

Decided Against Veterans.

By a recent decision of the supreme court of South Carolina the act of the legislature, exempting Confederate soldiers and sailors from the payment of licenses, was declared unconstitutional, says the News and Courier, and the decision is of interest to the whole state, and especially to the city of Charleston, where similar cases are pending and the corporation counsel was waiting for the supreme court to decide the case brought before taking action in the cases brought by this city. It will be remembered that a case was brought by the city of Laurens against a Confederate veteran named Anderson, in the mayor's court, who decided against Anderson, and the case was appealed to the circuit court, and Judge Prince affirmed the judgment of the mayor.

The case was then taken to the supreme court and Judge Prince's decision was affirmed. The main ground for the decision is that the act discriminates in favor of soldiers and sailors, but ignores the veterans of other wars as well as the soldiers and sailors of the Confederacy who enlisted from other states.

The decision of the supreme court is in part as follows:

"Indictment is mayor's court of the city of Laurens against John Wade Anderson for violation of the city ordinance. From circuit decree of Judge Prince, affirming the judgment of the mayor, the defendant appealed.

"The opinion of the court was delivered by Justice Gary. The exceptions assign error on the part of his honor, the presiding judge, in declaring the following statute unconstitutional to wit:

"Be it enacted by the general assembly of South Carolina, that all soldiers of the Confederate States, who enlisted from this state and who were honorably discharged from such service shall hereafter be exempt from any license for the carrying on of any business or profession, within this state, or any city, town or village therein: Provided, that such soldiers and sailors shall file with the clerk of the court of the county in which he resides the proper evidence of his service in the Confederate war: Provided further, that no partnership shall exist in any such business or profession with any person not a bona fide soldier or sailor of the said Confederate States."

"The defendant was tried in the mayor's court upon the charge of running a beef market and a grocery store without license. He pleaded that he was exempt from the payment of a license tax under the provisions of said act. The mayor ruled that the statute was unconstitutional and imposed a sentence upon the defendant, from which he appealed to the circuit court."

After citations from the constitution of this state and many cases bearing on the subject the decision concludes:

"The statute hereinbefore set out shows upon its face that it denies to those not included within its provisions the equal protection of the laws. It provides only for soldiers and sailors who enlisted from this state and were honorably discharged, but ignores the veterans of other wars, as well as those soldiers and sailors of the Confederacy who enlisted from other states and were honorably discharged. In fine there is not a single feature of the act upon which a classification can be based without violating the provisions of the state and federal constitutions.

"It is the judgment of this court that the judgment of the circuit be affirmed."

Wounds, Bruises and Burns.

By applying an antiseptic dressing to wounds, bruises, burns and like injuries before inflammation sets in, they may be healed without maturation and in about one-third the time required by the old treatment. This is the greatest discovery and triumph of modern surgery. Chamberlain's Pain Balm acts on this principle. It is an antiseptic and when applied to such injuries, causes them to heal very quickly. It also allays the pain and soreness and prevents any danger of blood poisoning. Keep a bottle of Pain Balm in your home and it will save you time and money, not to mention the inconvenience and suffering such injuries entail. For sale by Obeur Drug Co. and all medicine dealers.

Trespass Notice.

All persons are warned not to hunt or enter upon my lands (near Dawkins and Strother). The law is sufficient notice, but I wish to prevent possible misunderstanding by neighbors. I am providing an area where the gun is not heard and where game may retreat and multiply. The practice of the country has been too destructive. Squirrels had become almost extinct in my neighborhood. Now I forbid even rabbit hunting. A sufficient reason for my rule would be that dogs and guns are a danger to sheep, cattle and hogs. I can make no exceptions in favor of certain persons; others would presume to hunt and expect to be excused from prosecution. Hence this full warning. Trespass of stock is also forbidden.
